After we posted the article Rationalizing the Emotional Affair as “Just Friends”™ we were inundated with emails from people who were facing the challenge of a spouse who is denying that their emotional affair is an affair at all.. The main reason that they are justifying this stance is naturally because there was no sex involved. Most of the people we communicated with were at their wits ...

That's true, but in the long long run, it's not going to matter. They're going to deny you and your children a chance to colonize space or extend your lifespan, this is true! but ultimately, just because you're reading this site, I'm guessing you have either a bug-out bag or a get-out-of-town plan or some guns, or some other collapse plan! so you almost surely WILL survive.

It's not 1950. Don't quite understand this comment. What was wrong with 1950? My parents grew up in the 1950s, and they BOTH insist it was a wonderful era to live in—a time of much stronger moral and family values, social cohesion and community, without many of the crippling problems which beset us today (such as the ones discussed in this thread).
